Read the story below and answer the questions.

1995.It was Monday. And also the hottest one . so my friend jack and I were at my house in my room. We had to work on a science project for the school so I invited him over. First we had to decide what to make and that day was our last chance for making our project.

Jack suggested something “ I know , we’re going to make a steam-powered car .it will be the key for us to win the school prize ‘ ’ .At first I didn’t agree but I knew I had no choice , so I said “

I'm getting the things we need to make this car" and went to the garage to find some stuff for the project .there wasn't anything to pick up .when I told my friend about it he started to worry because we didn't have much time prepare our project.so he jumped out of the room and got on his bike to go to downtown and buy the things we needed. He spend hours to find the shop with necessary materials to build the steam-powered car. When he came back it was too late. We worked all night , and after three hours of hard labor , we fell asleep with our work 'incomplete! When woke up ,we panicked and shouted "what are going to do ?".

Suddenly my mom came to our room and said "why are you shouting? We told her the story and she laughed and said " I am so sorry for you kids. Not because work is left undone, but because today is snow day and the schools are canceled" and she continued laughing at us. I really thought of myself as a fool at that embarrassing moment.
