Up and Down

Audio CD Section 3: Expanded Story

(Page 2) Last week, Nick got some money for his birthday. He and his sister Mary went to a department store because he wanted to buy some toys. They don't go shopping in a department store very often, so Nick was very excited. There was so much to see and Nick was looking up, down, left, right, here, there, and everywhere. "The toys are on the sixth floor," said Mary. "Where are the elevators?" asked Nick.

(Page 4) The arrow started to flash and the bell went 'Bing'. The doors of the elevator opened. "Let's take this one! It's going up," said Mary. "Wow! Look at all the people! It's almost full," said Nick. There was an old lady, a young man, a boy, a young woman with a baby, and lots of other people. Nick and Mary are not very big so they squeezed into the elevator. The doors closed and the elevator went up.

(Page 6) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the second floor. The doors opened. It was so full of people. The young man got out. He was wearing a cool shirt and a pair of sunglasses. "Why is he wearing sunglasses?" asked Nick. "It isn't sunny." "Shhh!" said Mary. "Don't ask silly questions." The young man walked into the men's clothing department. The doors closed and the elevator went up.

(Page 8) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the third floor. Teenage clothes are on the third floor. The old lady got out at the teenage fashion department. She used a walking stick and walked very slowly. "She looks really old!" said Nick. "Why is she getting out here?" "Shhh!" said Mary. "Don't ask silly questions." Mary didn't want the old lady to hear Nick's question. The doors closed and up went the elevator.

(Page 10) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the fourth floor. The boy got out with his mother. He had very long hair like a girl. His mother took him by the arm. He didn't want to go with his mother. "Why does he look so unhappy?" asked Nick. "Shhh!" said Mary. "I said stop! No more silly questions!" The doors closed and the elevator went up.

(Page 12) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the children's department on the fifth floor. The elevator is not so full of people now. The young woman got out with her baby. Her baby was in his stroller and he was crying loudly. "Why is that baby crying so much?" asked Nick. "Shhh!" said Mary. "I said stop! No more silly questions!" The baby's mother was not very happy because her baby was too noisy.

(Page 14) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the sixth floor. The elevator doors opened. The sixth floor is the toy department. "This is where we get out," said Mary. "Great," said Nick. "Look at all the toys. Can we go and look at the computer games?" It's Nick's favorite place in the department store. "OK! Let's go!" Nick ran over to look at the computer games. He wanted to buy a game for his computer.

(Page 16) Nick was so happy to see all the computer games. He looked at the car games. He looked at the sports games. He looked at the puzzle games. He looked at all the games. Mary doesn't like to play computer games but she waited with her brother. Nick could not decide which game to buy; he liked all the computer games. Mary waited a long time. Then finally, Nick picked up a computer game. "I want this one," he said. "At last!" said Mary.

(Page 18) Nick and Mary walked over to the counter. The lady put Nick's computer game in a bag. "That's fifteen dollars, please," said the lady. Nick took out his money to pay the lady, and he looked up. "I know him!" said Nick, pointing at the television. "He was in the elevator." "You're right!" said Mary. "That's Ricky Dee. I love his songs." Nick paid the lady, and they went back to the elevator. It was time to go home.

(Page 20) Mary was happy to see her favorite singer and Nick was happy to have a new computer game. "Maybe we'll see Ricky Dee again in the elevator," said Mary. "I wish I was a rock star," said Nick. "I could be Nicky Dee." "Stop dreaming," said Mary. 'Bing' "There's the elevator now. Come on, it's time to go home." The elevator was going down. There were not many people in the elevator this time.

(Page 22) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the fifth floor again. The lady with the baby got in. But this time, the mother was in the stroller. She was very tired. The baby was pushing his mother in the stroller. He made his mother very, very tired. "Why is she sitting in the stroller?" asked Nick. "Shhh!" said Mary. "She'll hear you." Everybody in the elevator looked at the baby. What a super-baby!

(Page 24) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the fourth floor again. The doors opened. The boy and his mother got in. The boy's long hair was now short. His angry mother was now happy. She liked her son's short hair. The boy wasn't happy. "Poor boy! What happened to his hair?" asked Nick. "Shhh!" said Mary. "I think it looks very nice." Mary liked the boy's short hair. The doors closed and the elevator went down.

(Page 26) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the third floor. Wow! The old lady got into the elevator in some new clothes. She was wearing a cool cap, sunglasses, a cool jacket, pants and a shirt. "Is that the same old lady? What happened to her?" asked Nick. "Shhh!" said Mary. "She looks so cool!" The old lady was even listening to music with her headphones. She was a very cool grandmother.

(Page 28) 'Bing' The elevator stopped at the second floor. The elevator was full of people again. Ricky Dee ran into the elevator. He was wearing different clothes and he was in a hurry. He didn't look very happy. He wanted to get away from all his fans. His fans follow him everywhere they can. They wanted to take his photograph. "That's Ricky Dee," said Nick. Mary looked at the young man, "Are you sure that's him?" asked Mary. "Shhh!" said Nick. "Don't ask silly questions."

(Page 30) 'Bing' The elevator doors opened. On the first floor, there were lots of people. Ricky Dee ran out of the store. He didn't want his fans to see him. He didn't want them to take his photograph. Nick and Mary got out of the elevator, too. They watched Ricky Dee run out of the department store. "Do you really want to be a rock star, Nick?" asked Mary. "Not any more," said Nick. "Maybe I want to be a movie star."
